

Aboriginal Culture Diversity Training

Catalyst
Foundation

The Aboriginal Cultural Diversity Training takes a unique look at Aboriginal Culture and the diversity within it.

The facilitator will invite you to take part in a "conversation" about culture, what it is like for an Aboriginal person to live and work in Australia and how history has influenced Aboriginal people today. He will give some simple tips and techniques for working with Aboriginal people in a respectful way.

The training is not designed to make you culturally aware; it is designed to make you aware of culture.

Mark will invite you to ask questions, share experiences and leave you with an understanding that not all Aboriginal people are the same and that the different beliefs, dreamings and lores need to be acknowledged and considered.

The Aboriginal Cultural Diversity sessions can be tailored to suit your needs. The two hour introduction which will give a very basic overview of Aboriginal culture and diversity and the four hour session which gives the same information as the two hour but allows time for more discussion and includes a cultural self-assessment. The self-assessment is for the participants own use and is designed to raise some awareness of personal values and challenge opinions. This is completed prior to the session and retained by the participant, at the conclusion of the session participants are invited to revisit the assessment to determine if anything has changed for them due to the information given in the session.

To make a booking or for more information, contact:

Sakina Vohra
Marketing and Events Officer
Telephone: (08) 8168 8776
Email: information@catalystfoundation.com.au

Session 1

Basic Introduction to Aboriginal Cultural Diversity Session (2 hours).

Facilitated by, Paul Elliott

Paul is an Ngarrindjeri Elder. His family connections are in the Coorong area of SA.

Paul has worked in Aboriginal Primary Health Care for over 34 years in areas of Drug and Substance Misuse, Sexual Health, Community Health, Men's Health, Community Awareness,

Youth Worker, and Workplace Trainer and Assessor. Paul's work has taken him all over South Australia including the Rural and Remote Home lands.

Paul has acquired a wealth of knowledge and experience having worked in many different Aboriginal services and positions over his career.

Paul is well known in the Aboriginal community with many links and networks across SA.

Session 2

Aboriginal Cultural Diversity Session including a Self-Assessment (4 hours).

All prices on application. We can tailor the training to suit your service or organisations Professional Development needs